Editorial Comment

DEHYDRATOR LOOKS GOOD

Southern Tulare county's newest agri-industry, the Tule River Cooperative Drier, seems to have gotten off to a flying start, after being rushed to completion last spring and summer in time to go into operation on the 1962 prune crop.

At recent annual meeting of directors, Manager Roscoe Honeycutt reported that the first one-eighth revolving fund payment had gone to growers; that operation costs had been $5.12 per ton less than the $22 provided for, with this $5.12 credited to individual growers, to be paid back over an eight year period in the form of patronage savings.

And perhaps indicative of the future was the signing up of a new grower at the meeting, while another potential grower took out application papers. The cooperative now has 21 members with well over 500 acres of prunes for the dehydrator next season.

Honeycutt points out, however, that new costs will be added to next year's operation, not the least of which will be property taxes; and there will be a full year of interest to pay on borrowed money.

But the future looks good for the Tule River Cooperative Drier, and the farmers who had the foresight and the courage to "put up their money and take their chances" are to be congratulated on the excellent job that is being done.

And from the community standpoint, this is the type of industry that is most welcome in our area.

HARP JOINS THAT HARDY LOT, THE DIGGERS OF PISMO CLAMS

The variety of outdoor life offered to the Californian is almost endless, and judging from the stream of traffic on the highways each weekend we take advantage of it. Here in Porterville we are exceptionally lucky as we live at the foot of the Sierra and the joys of hiking and cliff-hanging are only minutes away. But, only a few miles to the west the blue Pacific Ocean snarls and roars and that is hard to resist also.

During a recent weekend the Pacific rolled back in a minus tide and laid bare the clam-infested beaches of Pismo and that hardy lot of people called clam-diggers turned out in battalion strength to harvest the crop. They are a colorful lot. It tends to be an older group. Clamming is not the kid's game. Perhaps it looks ridiculous, a grown man standing in waist-deep water poking in the sand with a little garden fork.

There are as many theories about how to stay warm in the cold surf as there are clammers. Some go into the surging water in bathing suit only. Others wear as many clothes as they can get on. Loyd Bridges-type diving gear has begun to appear. You might get speared for a fish.

The water was cold, and the wind was sharp on the wet skin.

CITY LIBRARY LISTS NEW BOOKS

New by J. D. Salinger, RAISE HIGH THE ROOFBEAMS, CARPENTERS. Episodes from Salinger's introspective views of the life and thoughts of the Glass family. Seymour Glass, the oldest, a poet and his family's idol, is central in this book, though what we know about him comes through his brother, Buddy, an English teacher (and something of a hermit) at a girl's college in upper New York State. Buddy, who writes short stories, sounds a little like Salinger himself. The first half of the book, about a grotesque, dreadful wartime wedding party, has an Alice in Wonderland atmosphere. The second is Buddy's jumbled, rambling memories of his brother. Of course, this is far from a family saga; it branches into Zen literature, oriental poetry, and the search for truth in life, though it keeps returning to the rare, peculiar and remarkably real Glasses.

THE DOWNHILL RACERS, by Oakley Hall, is a taut, dramatic story of four first-class skiers, two men and two women, who are a small society to themselves on the ski circuit. The background of hard dangerous skiing and bitter competition is unusual and fascinating, and the theme, of what one does to win in a tough sport and of what winning in anything means to a man, is strong, emotional, and well-expressed. The love affairs, though subsidiary, are well done also. Very good, exciting reading.

A first-class suspense-psychological story is TWO HOURS TO DARKNESS, by Antony Trew. It is set in a British-manned Polaris submarine in northern waters. The captain of the sub, really a sick man with too much on his mind, is obsessed with the idea that a saboteur is aboard. Tension and suspicion build up in this nuclear submarine with an unbalanced, angry, unreasonable captain, who even contemplates an unauthorized nuclear explosion. Excellent characterizations.

A good first novel is THE BOY IN THE POOL, by Camilla R. Bittle; a neatly devised, well told and rather sentimental story about a death in a New England preparatory school for wealthy boys. The story is less about the dead boy than about the effect of the death on his divorced parents and on the faculty and their wives.

holds a trophy for high team game, 1,062, and Dobbs holds a second trophy for high individual game of 262 pins. In the tournament were 136 teams from Fresno, south, and, on the coast, from Santa Maria, south. (Edwards Studio photo)

With the Jackass Mail about to run to Springville, you had better get your outrider on the ball around the yard. This hazardous mission of mail hauling will require the toughening up of outdoor work which only gardening can provide. Besides that he may tangle with some mountain dew and never find his way back to the old homestead.

Speaking of old homesteads we have everything from rambling roses to seed for corn bread makings. We also have apricot trees like grandma cut switches from and berry vines for home made pie. If none of these interest you, you're just not the sentimental type.

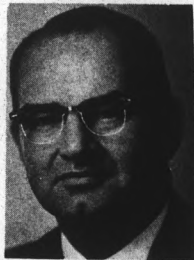

Getting back to the present the azaleas and camellias are blooming like crazy. You should come have a look at these whether you're buying any or not. They are really beautiful and you can imagine how the camellias must look in China where they cover whole hill-sides. Maybe while your western friend is making the Springville run you can come visit us.

We're open seven days a week with plenty of easy parking. Service is slow during these nice spring days but we'll do our best. You'll find a clerk easier before eleven in the morning, but come any time and browse a little.

WHEN IS THE BEST TIME TO INVEST?

What does "best" mean anyway? A low price that assures a profit later on? Best for whom — a get-rich-quick speculator . . . or Aunt Agatha . . . or the Rockefeller Foundation . . . or yourself? Best for producing what?

The truth is, there are no best times for everybody, because only through hindsight can anyone tell whether his investment timing was poor or good. In reality, investment timing is of prime importance only to the "speculator". For the investor, a person with a long-term objective, time, (not timing), is the important thing.

How about investing in a mutual fund? Is there a best time for that? We think there is: It's when you have the money available — provided you believe that the managers of the mutual fund can do a better job of investing your money than you can yourself. And that answer also implies that it doesn't make much difference whether the stock market is high or low or if general business is poor or good; the odds favor the professional investor against the amateur.

Suppose you inherited $100,000 tomorrow and decided that, instead of investing the money yourself, you'd turn it over to a private trustee or a trust company to manage. Before doing it, would you wait until you, yourself, thought it was a good time to invest or would you give them the money and let them decide? If you valued their judgment, obviously, the latter is the right answer.

And so it is when investing in a mutual fund. A mutual fund, in reality, is a method of investing. Even when you buy as little as one share, you're saying, "I'm asking the management to invest the money for me; I'll let them decide what to invest in and when."

When investing in a mutual fund, your problem is simply which mutual fund. They're many to select from . . . each a little different as their performance indicates. This is one reason you should discuss your investment problems with

CAMPAIGN SUGGESTIONS FROM POLITICAL SCIENTIST WHEELER

THERE ARE THE FAINTEST of rumbles being heard on the political scene 'round and about our town. These are so faint, that they sound like a hoarse whisper.

RE-ELECT

William R. (Bill)
RODGERS

COUNCILMAN

An analysis indicates that the political campaigns for councilmanic seats are under way. Charges and counter charges are so faint and few that it takes radar to pick them up. Most people are not equipped in this fashion, so they are totally unaware that a frantic race is being run.

MAYBE WHAT WE NEED hereabouts is a good cause to live up the township. What our campaigners need is to stir up a crisis or two. This has been done so regularly by the New Frontiersmen that a crisis is a normal state of being on the national scene. In fact, when we don't have a crisis, we can consider the situation subnormal. But we were speaking of causes; not effects.

THERE ARE SEVERAL CAUSES running loose, if any of the candidates care to take hold of one. For instance, why doesn't someone staunchly, fearlessly and firmly come out for reducing the taxes and increasing the municipal services. Everybody likes a tax cut. They occur so rarely. And service appeals to our laziness. There is good precedent for this platform. It's being done on the national level. Of course, they are talking of billions, whereas on the local front, most people still think a dollar is a dollar, so it probably wouldn't work.

ANOTHER ATTENTION GETTER would be a proposition to plow up the Golf Course and plant it to safflower or some such. The course often serves as the object of attack, which is peculiar in that it is one of the local services that pays its own way. Actually, the so-called golfers are doing a pretty good job cultivating the terrain with their clubs. If they chop much more away, we'll soon have to put it in the soil bank.

WHAT'S THE MATTER WITH advocating a leash law; not only for dogs, but for cats, too. This should affect about every household in town. Also, we would suggest a leash law for Main street draggers. This would please fleet-footed pedestrians.

BUT, I DOUBT IF ANY of the campaigners espouses any such causes. At this writing, we are only sure that they all believe in home, mother and Porterville which will hardly stimulate any arguments. Still, I have to respect anyone who has the temerity to run for a local Council seat. The job is time consuming and very short on reward; unless you believe that virtue is its own reward.

BEING ON THE CITY COUNCIL is a sure way to set yourself up as a sitting target. Even clay pigeons object to this.

DEVELOPMENT PROJECTS
in the game area in the Success lake basin, north of the lake proper, are shown above; the top photo is of a bird and small game watering hole that has been scooped down to bedrock and which is expected to have water in it the year around; lower photo is one of the several varieties of brush and cover plants and trees that have been started in the area. The game area is on federally owned land, administered by the County Parks department, with the state department of fish and game and sportsmen in the various clubs of the Tulare County Sportsmen's Council actually doing the work. Strips through the area have been disced and sowed to feed grain.

Time Out

But, there was a keen sense of being alive. There was no doubt about it, a dead person couldn't hurt that much. Pretty soon the feeling is gone from your feet and you are more comfortable. There's danger of sticking the clamming fork into your toe and not finding out about it until later. The waves recede and leave you standing ankle-deep on a sandbar. Seconds later a wave surges in and you are chest-deep and you haven't moved an inch.

Farther down the sandbar an old fellow stops in his sand probing to drink long and happily from a paper bag. He waves it amiably to you when he sees you watching. There is a certain fellowship among clammers. The fellow next to you is swept off his feet twice in a short time and the last time he dropped his fork in the racing water, it disappears and is never seen again, at least by that particular clammer. The wife digs in the sand in rough water and fights a losing battle trying to keep her hair dry.

As the tide began to rise again Mel Carter, a fellow Portervillian, and his son, Carl, appear out of the waves. They were dark and purple, like creatures from the dark lagoon. High and dry on the beach in the car with the heater going sat his wife Midge, and son Bruce and daughter Mary Ellen. The loyal family rolled down the windows far enough to shout words of encouragement to the pair.

When the afternoon was over you brushed the sand from behind your ears and headed for the fire. If you dug long enough and deep enough and you were pretty lucky, there will be clam chowder to-night and while you eat the chowder the wind and water becomes less cold in your memory.

TYPE III ORAL POLIO

the family to the next. In this way there is a possibility of immunizing every individual in Tulare county and once and for all, eliminate the disease.

Those who failed to get Type I or Type II can have their Type III now. It is not necessary to take the oral vaccine in sequence, that is I, II and III, since each type of the oral vaccine confers immunity to only that type. By taking Type III vaccine the person can be immunized against the Type III polio virus.

The vaccine is being distributed at a cost of 25c per dose but no one will be turned away for lack of funds. Locations and times of the clinics are as follows: Earlhart Elementary school, 11:00 a.m. - 6:00 p.m.; Porterville Junior college, 11:00 a.m. - 6:00 p.m.; Springville school, 11:00 a.m. - 6:00 p.m.; Strathmore Elementary school, 11:00 a.m. - 6:00 p.m.; Terra Bella school, 12:00 noon - 4:00 p.m.; Tipton Elementary school, 10:00 a.m. - 1:00 p.m. and Pixley Elementary school, 2:00 p.m. - 6:00 p.m.

off the main lines into the foothills and mountains — the "feeder" lines being referred to as the "Jackass Mail" since the stages were usually pulled by mule teams.

Just who is sponsoring the Porterville-Springville Jackass Mail run is debatable, since no responsible organization is willing to risk its reputation.

A committee of stalwart and fearless frontiersmen has been organized however, and a meeting is planned for the Porterville chamber of commerce office at 8:30 a.m. Friday. Other meetings will be called as needed in the Mountain Lion saloon.

Special Jackass Mail stamps, issue No. 2, have been printed and will sell for four bits. Stamps can be obtained through the chambers of commerce at Porterville and Springville.

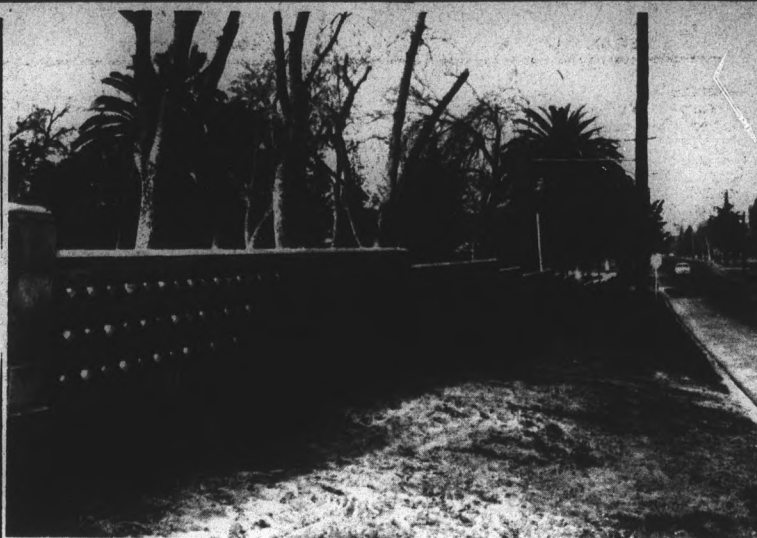

Heading the planning committee is Col. Bob Natzke (he has a sabre and a Confederate uniform) and he states that he will call out his Confederate gun crew with their cannon, to guard the Jackass mail enroute.

Others involved include: Domer F. Power, Carroll Simmons, Marty Martin, Jack Lucey, Larry Gill, Allan Coates, Wes Kutzner, Tom Masonheimer, Ed. Jones, Donald Jones, John Dilts, Gene Duncan and Bill Rodgers.

From usually reliable sources it is learned that there is already dissention in the ranks over who will be named wagon master. Judge George Carter is reported to have threatened to horse-whip Col. Natzke if he is not named wagon master, but the colonel has retorted that he will not be intimidated, sub.

the local distributor.

The students will be flown to Los Angeles on March 16 and will be taken by helicopter to the Disneyland Hotel where they will be guests for the night with full privileges at Disneyland. On Sunday, March 17, they will rehearse for their part as participants in an agricultural quiz and panel discussion on the show to be produced at the NBC color studio in Los Angeles. Following the taping of the show for a March 30 showing, they will be returned home by air.

John B. Merritt, field services representative for the California Farm Bureau Federation, with offices in Berkeley and Fresno, and Mrs. Merritt will serve as chaperones for the young people during their stay in the South.

All of the students selected have had farm or ranch backgrounds. All have been members of 4-H Clubs, while Nuckols and Todd have been active in Future Farmer of America work. Both are enrolled in agricultural programs at the college, while Miss Calkins, the current Tulare County Maid of Cotton, and Miss Kennedy are in pre-teaching programs.

New methods of cost cutting and mechanical harvesting will be discussed at Peach Day on the U.C. campus at Davis, March 22.
